Goa Seizure Is Criticized

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Internal disapproval of India's military seizure of Portuguese Goa, Diu and Damão grew Tuesday. An editor joined one of the nation's elder statesmen in criticizing the take-over as a violation of the moral principles of the late Mohandas K. Gandhi.

Eric da Costa, an editor writing in the Eastern Economist, said that after nearly half a century of reliance on Gandhi's principles of nonviolence the current question is: "What faith do we now profess?"

Da Costa declared the basic common element of Gandhi's teachings "was that the best ends cannot justify the means inconsistent with the doctrine of non-violence except in self-defense."

Ten Rescued From Dredge

BOSTON (AP) — Ten crewmen from the storm-tossed dredge Cartagena were plucked from the raging North Atlantic Tuesday by coastguardmen after futile efforts to tow the huge craft about 250 miles east of Nantucket.

All suffered exhaustion and exposure. One crewman, Merlin Robinson, 47, was in poor condition.

The Coast Guard cutter Acushnet which accomplished the rescue radioed Robinson was unconscious and "apparently dead" but mouth-to-mouth resuscitation restored his breathing.

Acushnet's message added Robinson "is not oriented and may have internal injuries."

Retired Minister Is Murdered

BROOKLYN, Mich. (AP) — The badly burned body of a retired Methodist minister — his hands tied behind his back — was found Tuesday in a burning room at his farm home about two miles south of here.

The body was identified as that of the Rev. Roy R. Decker, 70, by state police at the nearby Jackson post.

Officers said the death "definitely was murder" although the cause of death had not been determined.

The body was found by firemen in a flame-damaged room in the house. It was lying face down and was covered with a blanket.

Oklahoma Train Robber Dies

TARZANA, Calif. (AP) — Death came quietly in bed Tuesday to Al Jennings, pint-sized badman of the Oklahoma Territory who claimed he robbed 15 or 20 trains.

Jennings, 98, was convicted to ward the end of the 1890s of a train robbery on Oct. 1, 1897 and sentenced to life imprisonment. But after serving five years he was paroled, and in 1907 President Theodore Roosevelt pardoned him.

He went straight. In 1914, he ran successfully for governor of Oklahoma. He later became a lecturer, evangelist and constant critic of the badmen of television.

Family Drowns Crossing Lake

PHILLIPSBURG, Que. (AP) — A family of five, reunited just a week ago, drowned Tuesday when an automobile carrying them across the frozen face of Lake Champlain on a pleasure trip crashed through the ice into 14 feet of water.

The mother had brought the three young children from Alliance, Alta., last week to join her husband in Bedford, Ohio, where he took a new job several months ago as superintendent of a processing plant.

The victims were David Carr and his wife, Dorothy, 30, and their children, Leslie, 5, Stephen, 4, and Jacqueline, 14 months.

Ike Welcomed In Disneyland

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower visited Disneyland Tuesday and got perhaps the most tumultuous welcome ever given anyone at the amusement park.

Several hundred persons surrounded the former chief executive with shouts of, "Hello, Ike!"

Fathers lifted youngsters to their shoulders for a look at the beaming, ruddy general. Jim Haseltine, 8, of San Leandro, Calif., stuck out a hand and Eisenhower gripped it.

Hope Seen For GOP Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck said Tuesday a "wave of conservatism" apparent throughout the country "might sweep the GOP into control of the House in the 1962 elections."

"We are going to win quite a few seats," Halleck said in an interview. "We have a fighting chance to take control of the House through the elections next November."

Kennedy Expected To Push Cabinet Level Housing Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will push early next year for a new, Cabinet-level Department of Urban Affairs and Housing, officials said Tuesday. But he is expected to defer executive action to bar racial discrimination in housing.

Aides reported the White House probably will take the short-cut route, using Kennedy's own reorganization powers, to create the 11th major department of government. This would mean pending legislation would be dropped.

If this is done, congressional opponents of the new department would have to muster enough support to veto the program within 60 days after its announcement by the President.

It has been widely predicted that Robert C. Weaver, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, would be named secretary of the department, thereby becoming the first Negro to reach Cabinet rank.

But that gesture apparently is about as far as the Kennedy administration will go in the direction of racial equality in housing until after Congress adjourns next summer, informed officials said privately.

On the advice of administration leaders in Congress and some political advisers, it was reported, Kennedy is laying aside for the present a long-considered executive order prohibiting racial or religious discrimination in any housing built with federal help in the form of loan, loan guarantee, or mortgage insurance.

Earlier officials had predicted freely that the order would be forthcoming before Congress reconvenes on Jan. 10. Kennedy promised such an order in his election campaign.

"It definitely will come," one official said. "The problem is one of timing. I personally would guess it will be issued before next fall's election, but it may be later."

It was explained that Kennedy's advisers fear that issuing the order now, or during the session, would alienate Southern Congress members whose support is badly needed for such top-priority legislation as tariff reduction, a tax overhaul and health care for the aged under Social Security.

However, Kennedy is expected to support the civil rights bills pending in both houses to prohibit racial discrimination in employment, speed up the integration of schools and outlaw poll taxes in federal elections.

By using his authority under the Reorganization Act to set up the new Cabinet post, Kennedy could bypass the major initial obstacle — the House Rules Committee, which has the power to determine what bills will go to the floor.

This method could assure also a vote of the measure without risk of a filibuster. The burden of argument and proof would be on the opponents, and delaying a vote would defeat their aim because reorganization plans become law automatically in 60 days in the absence of an adverse vote by either the Senate or the House.

Laos Leaflets Urge Wiping Out 'American Imperialists'

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A 220-man security guard, flown to this capital from pro-Communist bases for a conference of Laos' three warring princes, was accused Tuesday of importing leaflets urging the royal army to mutiny and to wipe out Americans.

Neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and his half-brother Prince Souphanouvong of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, will meet Wednesday with pro-Western Premier Boun Oum on forming a national union government to guide a neutral and independent Laos.

The airlift of the security detail from the east-central base on the Plain des Jars was scarcely completed, however, until a storm broke over the leaflets.

Laotian employees of a Western embassy picked up a sample of the leaflets said to have been scattered in bundles by the troops as they rode in trucks from the airport to their area in Vientiane.

Addressed to Boun Oum's royal soldiers, it said: "Disobey all orders and instructions of the American imperialists and Phoumi Nosavan. If for any reason this conference ends in failure it is we who will suffer. Therefore, let us stand firmly and struggle against the tricks of American imperialists and Phoumi Nosavan and wipe them out of the Kingdom of Laos."

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan is Laotian vice-premier.

Brig. Gen. Bounting Venevong-sos of the royal army, shown an English translation of the leaflet, angrily seized it and said he would investigate.

The airlift of the soldiers was part of an agreement reached two weeks ago. Boun Oum agreed under pressure to get the conference of the three princes under way. They were flown to Vientiane in a chartered plane of the Indian-Polish-Canadian control commission.

The 14-nation conference on Laos at Geneva, which convened last May 17, has agreed on the outlines of a policy for an independent and neutral Laos. Further progress depends on formation of a single government in Laos.

JFK Visits Father; Works On Presidential Agenda For '62

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy visited his seriously ill father, Tuesday, then returned to work on presidential matters.

In advance of the arrival of Dr. Preston Wade, New York specialist, to make a year-end checkup of his back, the President spent 24 minutes at the bedside of Joseph P. Kennedy.

Relaxed and informally dressed, the President drove from the mansion of Col. and Mrs. C. Michael Paul, the temporary White House, to St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach to see his 73-year-old father. The sire of the Kennedy clan is suffering from the paralytic aftereffects of a stroke and from pneumonia.

In midafternoon, the President turned his attention to the federal budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1, and to his State of the Union message to the next Congress.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said he expects the President to deliver the State of the Union message in person during the first week of the session which opens Jan. 10.

In announcing that Dr. Wade was coming here to join Dr. Janet Travell, the White House physician for the back checkup, Salinger said Kennedy had experienced no recent difficulty with his back.

Kennedy called some of his key advisers.

With Budget Director David Bell and others, he planned to give the budget for next year its final going over.

Others on hand for work on the budget or the State of the Union message include Theodore Sorensen, White House special counsel, speech writing assistant and all-around aide; Dr. Walter Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers; Lawrence E. O'Brien, assistant for congressional relations; and Myer Feldman, assistant White House counsel.

McGeorge Bundy, assistant for national security affairs, is expected to join the conferences later in the week.

GI Plane Crash First

Editors Pick Year's Top Stories In Pennsylvania

By JAMES E. WALTERS
AP State News Editor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The biggest Pennsylvania news story of 1961 was the death of 31 Pennsylvania youths in the crash in Virginia of the airplane carrying them to begin their Army training, the annual Associated Press poll of the state's editors showed Wednesday.

Four other stories also drew wide support:

—The November elections, in which Henry X. O'Brien, Republican, ousted incumbent Anne X. Alpern, Democrat, from the State Supreme Court. Republicans also carried several majority contests, ousting incumbents in cities like Erie and Scranton.

—The congressional re-apportionment question. The state now has 30 U.S. Representatives but will be cut back to 27 under the 1960 Census. There was no agreement, as the year drew to a close, as to which three would lose out.

The 27 congressmen will be elected at-large if the question is not solved by Feb. 20.

—The Pottsville burglary trials, with their far-ranging side angles. Three defendants were convicted of burglarizing the home of John B. Rich, who said he lost $20,000 in jewels and cash while the state contended his loss was nearer $478,000. The trial of curvaceous Lillian Reis, 32, ex-chorus girl accused as the mastermind, ended in a hung jury. Richard Blaney, a prosecution witness, was slain in gangland fashion—just as his brother, Vincent, who was indicted for the burglary, had been earlier.

—The legalization of radar to arrest and prosecute highway speeders. Since this went into effect Sept. 1, after a bitter legislative fight, State Police have arrested about 7,000 on the basis of radar evidence.

Next in order, but commanding nowhere the support of the first five, were: (6) The report of the governor's special committee listing 145 items needed to improve the state educational system at all school levels; (7) The two-cent-a-gallon (from 5 to 7) increase in the State gasoline tax; (8) The electrical anti-trust cases; and the jailing of seven executives; (9) The Philadelphia city scandals, with the indictment of three former city employees and two other men on charges of defrauding the city of several hundred thousand dollars; and (10) The indictment of ex-Gov. John S. Fine on charges of failing to pay U.S. income taxes in several years after he left office in 1954.

The 31 Army recruits from Pennsylvania were killed last month—along with 43 other recruits from neighboring states and three plane crew members—in the crash of a U.S. Army-chartered plane owned by Imperial Airlines. It was the next-to-worst single plane crash in the United States.

The Pennsylvania recruits, in their late teens or early 20s, boarded the plane at the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton Airport only a few hours after taking their service oaths.

After two hearings, the Federal Aviation Agency ordered Imperial Airlines to demonstrate it could meet FAA standards before putting planes in the air again. Imperial had suspended operations after the crash.

Stories voted in the "second 10" were:

(11) The heavy snows of last February; (12) Approval of parimutuel betting on harness races; (13) Approval of the Delaware River Basin Compact; (14) ACF Industries announced intention of closing its plant at Berwick; (15) The U.S. Supreme Court decision upholding the state's Sunday Blue Laws; (16) Five die in shopping night fire at Greensburg; (17) The Susquehanna River fish kill; (18) Hecklers pelt Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia as he defends his off-street parking program at public hearing; (19) Crash of a Navy plane into a store in Willow Grove, and (20) The U.S. pilot-food stamp project in the Uniontown area.

New Foreign Trade Change Possibility Seen As 'Good'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana said Tuesday that prospects for Senate passage of a new foreign trade program "are reasonably good" if the administration presents its case well.

Mansfield, the Senate's Democratic leader, said the success of President Kennedy's plea for greater authority to reduce tariffs depends on "how well the administration marshals all its facts."

The Montanan returned to his desk Monday to start preliminary plans on the Senate program for the session opening Jan. 10.

He told reporters extension of the reciprocal trade program on a liberalized basis faces a difficult road and the administration should start spelling out details of its program as soon as possible.

"So far, all we have been given are the generalities of what the administration wants," Mansfield said. "I hope we will be given the specifics shortly, and in no event later than February."

He suggested that the Senate

Finance Committee hold hearings simultaneously with the House Ways and Means Committee or that the two committees hold combined hearings to speed congressional action.

And Mansfield proposed that the administration supply each member of Congress as quickly as possible a state-by-state analysis of "exactly what foreign trade means to each of them in relation to both exports and imports as well as domestic production and employment."

"Japan, for instance," he said, "is the biggest customer this country has for cotton, wheat, soybeans and tanned hides."

He voiced his own support for the administration's aims but said time is important during the 1962 election year when there will be pressures in Congress for an early adjournment.

"The counteroffense against the program has not really gotten under way yet," Mansfield added.

The National Committee for an Effective Congress issued a statement saying debate on the issue may separate "the authentic conservatives" from "the sick radicals of the right."

The privately financed group, which describes itself as nonpartisan, said that "as the issue of free trade develops, the elements of the right-wing coalition may suffer a shotgun divorce."

"The economic unity of the free world is a proposition that no clear-headed advocate of capitalism can deny—and it is a proposition that no emotional isolationist or xenophobe can accept," it said.

The statement said the debate will find "the extremist leadership of the radical right" seizing upon protectionist fears as something to be exploited and milked.

But, it continued, the issues at stake in the debate will also "cause a revulsion against the radical right among those many honest, but naive conservatives who have believed its adventurism to be a legitimate fight against communism."

Adoula Accuses Tshombe Of 'Torpedoing' Planned Effort

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A Katanga move to trim powers of the Congo central government appeared emerging Tuesday on the eve of the first big test of the Kitona unity agreement.

The unity agreement, reached by Congo President Cyrille Adoula and Katanga President Moise Tshombe last Thursday, provided for Katanga members of Parliament to arrive Wednesday for seating in the National Assembly.

Adoula is skeptical. He declared Friday his regime will take energetic action—its exact nature unspecified—if Katanga fails to honor "Tshombe's commitment. He followed that up by charging, after Katanga's Cabinet said only the provincial assembly was competent to ratify the agreement, that Tshombe was torpedoing "the last effort to resolve the Katanga crisis by peaceful means."

However, U.N. sources indicated that arrangements are being made to fly 15 legislators from secessionist Elisabethville to Leopoldville in a U.N. plane and to house them in quarters guarded by U.N. troops.

The Katanga deputies and senators are expected to bring proposals to amend the Congolese constitution to give the provinces more freedom from the central government's control.

Tshombe objects to specifications for a strong central government in the constitution, which was drafted by Belgium before it freed the Congo colony in 1960 but never has been ratified by Parliament.

Tshombe's foreign minister, Ev-ariste Kimba, expressed hope that the Congo will evolve a fundamental law providing for a federation of states.

In Paris to confer with Katanga officials there, Kimba said Katanga is "willing to make some concessions," but on condition that they are not one-sided.

The United Nations, in a move previously disclosed by New York headquarters, announced acceptance of more than 900 Congolese troops eventually to serve in Gen. Sean McKeown's Congo force. The decision is apparently aimed to emphasize support for Adoula's regime.

Ninety will put on blue berets of the United Nations Wednesday to join Indian, Swedish, Norwegian and Canadian troops at Kamina, a U.N. military base in north Katanga.

U.N. officials, who rejected an offer of central government troops for the Dec. 18 battle of Elisabethville, said the Congolese will do guard duty and perform routine reconnaissance, but will not be used in any offensive action against Tshombe's government.

Rocky To Have An Opponent

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, Schenectady Democrat who has shown surprising strength in Republican territory, announced Tuesday he would seek to run against Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in next year's gubernatorial election.

Such a race would pit one divorced man against one who has announced plans for a divorce. But Stratton's nomination did not appear assured, and the Republican state chairman said Democratic national leaders were using the congressman merely as a "hatchet man."

Stratton's first marriage ended in divorce in 1946. At a news conference Tuesday, he declined to comment on the impending divorce of the Republican Rockefeller, who recently announced he and his wife had separated after 31 years of marriage.

More Jobs Needed

Unemployment is going down, happily, but there still are many people out of work. George Hagedorn, Director of Research for the National Association of Manufacturers, told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress this week that this represents human problems, and additionally is a loss to the nation because we are losing the contributions to the national production that these people are eager to make.

Mr. Hagedorn had some particularly interesting comments to make on the bug-a-boo of automation. He pointed out that we always have had technological improvement in the U.S., and old jobs constantly have been abolished.

But in the past, our economic growth has produced enough new and better jobs so that unemployment has not resulted. It isn't enough to know why a man has lost his job, Mr. Hagedorn said. "To complete the picture we need to know why he has not found a new one."

And so he came to the crucial question of how jobs come into being. Every new job that is created is the result of someone's decision that a profit can be made by investing in plant and equipment, and hiring someone to operate it.

When the climate for profits is good, many such individuals make many such decisions. When it is bad, few do.

The climate of profit opportunity should be good now. Much of the world is more prosperous than ever before, personal income is high in the United States, and the market for goods and services of all kinds should be vast.

But some factors blacken the profit opportunity picture. One, of course, is the rapid rise of costs, which erodes profits. The other is the income tax rate structure in the U. S.

Mr. Hagedorn pointed out that income tax reform along the lines of the Herlong-Baker bills would allow taxpayers to save more, and hence invest more — which will make more jobs. And even a small reduction in corporate income taxes would make investment more attractive. If we want more jobs, we will have to act to create them, and this is a way it can be done.

The Pennsylvania Story

Democrats A Curious Lot

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Pennsylvania Democrats on the eve of rounding out their seventh consecutive year in office on Capitol Hill at this point are a rather curious lot.

The current holiday season and end-of-year festive mood that gripped most on Capitol Hill in itself has a strong touch of the "unusual"—unusual from the standpoint that donkey riders of the Keystone State never before weathered an event quite like this.

The somewhat singular event: Never in the history of the Commonwealth since adoption of the first state constitution in 1790 when Indian uprisings and scalping—other than political—were nominally common, have Democrats been successful in wrapping up seven consecutive Christmases as the administration in power!

Of course there have been Democratic governors before—six prior to the Democratic Leader Administration of 1955—but never in the history of the state have Keystone State donkey riders been able to mount two consecutive Democratic administrations.

When Mr. Lawrence successfully granted over the top of "Ballot Box Hill" in the election battle of 1968, he was the first Democrat to make the grade—the first Democrat to succeed a Democrat in the gubernatorial den on the second floor front of the Main Capitol Building.

Thus at this holiday season in the year 1961, Pennsylvania Democrats are celebrating the Christmas season with the unusual feeling (for them) of now being fairly well entrenched. By now they are almost "veterans" at the job of running Capitol Hill!

Democratic members of the healthy Capitol Hill payroll corps—and Pennsylvania taxpayers today are supporting more than 80,000 state payrollers—have a new outlook, although most of course do not realize it. They no longer sport that unfamiliar air of one who has "just been ascended" to the throne room; of one who has been suddenly granted license to walk on hallowed ground; of one who has been handed the key and told in effect, "here it is, it's yours."

In the "early" days some six years ago the "new breed" was just beginning to take over. There were of course far more Republicans hold-overs on the payroll than Democrats.

Democratic members of the payroll club in those days were in the minority—vastly so. Each step they took seemed to be a ginger "test step." There was a future look about many—a look of questioning, as though: Do we belong here?

They stuck pretty close to their desks in those days. In the intervening years much of this has changed.

Today Capitol Hill has been taken over completely by Democratic faithful. Democratic "Veterans" are throwing the ball with the ease of their Republican counterparts of only a comparatively few years ago.

They walk on the ground on Capitol Hill with the assuredness of complete ownership. They have managed to garner that touch of "bureaucratic freedom" that entitles them to walk on that ground!

The holiday season this year, for really the first time, has been one of leaving Capitol Hill and returning—with the confidence of ones who feel they now "own" it. They've made the big hurdle (they're convinced) in being able to celebrate the holiday season with two Democratic administrations in a row for the first time.

Curious? Perhaps, but also perhaps understandable.

About Town

The will of the wealthy, eccentric man was being read and the relatives all listened expectantly.

Finally, the lawyer said: "And to my nephew, Charlie Jones, whom I promised to remember—'Hi there, Charlie!'"

The substitute teacher found her early morning class a little undisciplined. She asked a boy in the front row, "What's your name?"

"Julie," he replied.

"Now, class, we mustn't be so informal," she said. "Never mind nicknames. Your name is Julius."

"Yes, ma'am" he said meekly.

"Now, what's your name?" she asked the second boy.

"Billous," he replied.

Forty-one years ago the only noise in the Clark household was the wailing of a son, named Robert. A year later in Tyrone, Pa., Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians were born.

Unlike 41-year-old Clark, the 40-year-old choral and orchestra group has been blaring steadily and most famously where 140 million Americans can't be wrong.

Fred Waring is the tops in American music. And he showed it Christmas Eve with one of the finest programs ever to grace the screen which reaches practically every home in this far-flung land of ours.

Fred, who has survived a fanatical assortment of musical crazes over the 40-year span, gave to the public last Sunday night music at its best.

Even the master himself, Waring, indicated there's plenty of hop in the Shawnee-cultivated voice with "Big John," a minor's specialty which revealed Fred has other first-class qualities aside waving magic arms to bring out the best of his organization.

With the freshness of a young colt, veteran Waring proved that television has to revert to the pro whenever its needs to lift its groggy head. The brass of NBC certainly must have felt during the hour-long show that the Fabians, Elvis, etc. are amateurs when you try to put them in the same league as Waring. There's class written all over the Delaware River resident and his group of Pennsylvanians.

The others have their place but not in the echelon reserved only for the Warrings. Still in the midst of tour—the Hallmark—Waring brings to the people across the fifty popular songs, show tunes, spirituals, operetta and long hair. Not a trick does he miss to touch every musical string of the listener.

One of the last of the great leaders to guide music to every hamlet in the United States, Waring, who has been the toast of President Eisenhower, Queen Elizabeth II of England, and even the Soviet's perpetual criticizer, Khrushchev, who for once bypassed his unbearable attitude and offered praise to an American product—Waring and his Pennsylvanians.

Millions know Fred by name and by sight and after Christmas Eve you might add a million more who have joined his fan club. This is a far cry from the scores of crooners and countless orchestras who have reached the top and then disintegrated. Waring is like Gen. MacArthur's old soldier who will never die but will just fade away.

Perhaps the best summation after watching a Waring television show is: "It is a lesson in music with your listening pleasure."

Washington — Senate Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa, has decided to try for the chairmanship of the powerful Senate Republican Policy Committee.

He will announce that before Congress reconvenes January 10.

This key party post was made vacant by the recent death of Senator Styles Bridges, N.H. Press reports have credited Senator Everett Saltonstall, Mass., as slated to succeed Bridges. Saltonstall is now head of the Senate Republican Conference.

But Hickenlooper is telling colleagues he has decided to seek the place on the basis of numerous assurances of support. He claims he has enough to win.

Inside You And Yours

Dear Doctor...

Dear Doctor: Why do some people head from the inside out instead of outside in?
Mrs. N. H.

Dear Mrs. H.: Actually, people

heal sideways. A deep cut leaves almost no scar when its edges are stitched or taped together. A gaping gash heals first where opposite edges are closest together—deep in the wound. Scar tissue fills in long before skin cells can bridge the wide outside gap.

Dear Doctor: Can continuous sinus drainage cause cancer of the throat? What are the symptoms?
Mrs. E. G.

Dear Mrs. G.: Sinus drainage is as common as winter colds. But cancer of the throat is almost as rare as hen's teeth.

With his flashlight and tongue depressor, your doctor can spot any bleeding, hard-to-swallow cancerous lump.

No Explanations

Dear Doctor: Why do Army, Navy and Air Force doctors brush off patients without an explanation?
Mrs. G. E.

Dear Mrs. E.: In and out of service, you'll find doctors good and bad, talkative and silent. Dependents' Clinics are often

The Iowa out-ranks Saltonstall in seniority. Hickenlooper is the senior Republican on the Joint Atomic Committee; second-ranking Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee; and a member of the Agriculture Committee.

According to Hickenlooper, he has the backing of Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, Ill.

Significantly, although Saltonstall has been generally deemed Bridges' likely successor, the Massachusetts veteran has been silent about his plans. It's very possible Saltonstall may not run for the Policy Committee chairmanship if seriously challenged by Hickenlooper.

Masses Leaders—Red China is reacting quickly and forebodingly to this country's increased military assistance to Communist-ruled South Vietnam.

The Red Chinese general who masterminded the fighting that drove the French out of Indo-China almost a decade ago has arrived in Hanoi, capital of North Vietnam, and is directing preparations for a large-scale offensive against South Vietnam.

He is Soviet-trained Marshal Yeh Chien-ying, rated by Pentagon Intelligence as the "best staff officer" in the Red Chinese army.

With Yeh is a group of other high-ranking veterans of the successful Indo-China campaigns. Foremost among them are General Liu Ya-lou, deputy chief of the Red Chinese air force, and General Cheng-wu, deputy chief of the Communist army's political branch.

Other officers with Yeh are General Huang Jung-sheng, Lieutenant General Hsiao Hsiang-jung, Major Lei Ying-fu, Vice Admiral Wu Sui-lin, and Senior Colonel Liu Chung-kuei.

Significantly, these Red Chinese commanders are working in conjunction with General Nguyen Giap, commander of North Vietnamese forces.

Giap met Yeh and his group when they arrived at Hanoi's Giam Airport. During the warring against the French, Giap was the field commander while Yeh had charge of strategy and logistic support.

All indications are the same arrangement is to be employed against South Vietnam.

Latest Intelligence reports to the Joint Chiefs of Staff also warn of the strong likelihood Red Chinese forces will be used in the impending offensive.

Large numbers of these troops are concentrated on North Vietnam's borders, from where they can be readily shuttled to combat areas.

That is ominously similar to what happened in Korea and Indo-China.

In anticipation of intensified Communist activity, U.S. helicopter crews have been directed to shoot back if fired on.

In addition to aircraft, the U.S. is providing South Vietnam with New-type plastic landing craft designed especially for use in the shallow waterways infested by Communist guerrillas. Heavier steel vessels previously sent proved useless.

Foreign Flash—Timor Island, off the north coast of Australia, is the most likely area Indonesia will try to capture first if peace efforts fail. Indonesia occupies the western part of the island, and claims all of it.

Japan's Nissan Motor Company has signed a 10-year contract with India's Defense Department for "technical assistance" in the construction of thousands of small patrol jeeps. India will pay Nissan 4 percent of the price of the cars as a royalty and technical assistance fee.

Mexico's President Lopez Mateos has named seven former Presidents to government posts. Strongly pro-Western former President Miguel Aleman, was named head of the Council for Tourism, Leftist ex-President Lazaro Cardenas was made a member of the Rio Balsas Commission, a conservation project.

On Way Out—Salvatore Bontempo, head of the State Department's Bureau of Security & Consular Affairs, is getting his wish—in reverse.

Recently, the former New Jersey Commissioner of Conservation & Economic Development, whose appointment to the State Department was hotly challenged in Congress, advocated that his agency be abolished.

It isn't going to be. He is leaving instead.

Bontempo has notified the White House he is resigning next month. He was not urged to change his mind.

His departure may spare him a clash with Representative Francis Walter, D. Pa., chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, who angrily assailed Bontempo's appointment. Walter charges Bontempo has sharply reduced the State Department's security staff, and proposed to grill him about that when Congress reconvenes.

The Security Bureau includes six agencies: The Visa Office; Passport Office; Special Consular Office; Office of Refugee & Migration Affairs; Office of Munitions Control and the Office of Security, which is responsible for personnel security in the State Department. Bontempo's job pays $20,000 a year.

Walter Winchell

Reading The Mail

"North Pole: Dear Walter: As you see I got back okay to rest for another year (Mr. Khrushchev willing) but I'm not completely in any Ho-ho-ho mood because I had to pass your chimney without leaving you even one apple, the only columnist in the U.S. I punished. Am sending you this letter to explain why, with the hope that you will be a better fellow in 1962.

"I read Tallulah Bankhead's article in a magazine in which she mentioned several columnists she described as 'divine' and your name was conspicuous by its omission. What happened between you two? You were always so gushy about her acting when you reviewed plays for the N.Y. Mirror. But what've you done for her lately? You must have written something to make her leave you off her list of compliments. Anyone who isn't a friend of Talu is no friend of mine, so you can go to hell—S.C.

"P.S.: I dare you to print this!"

"New York: Readers might be interested in this one. The old Russian dictionary (1962) defined the word 'Khrushchev' thus: 'Insect, extremely dangerous to agriculture.' The new Russian dictionary, recently out, says: 'Khrushchev, name of a family of flying insects.'—Meredith Anderson."

"Elizabeth, N.J. Dear Walter: I don't know whether or not you saw my autobiography 'Point of Departure.' When writing about my years with The New Yorker (as an editor) I could not resist mentioning you. These excerpts are on pages 213 and 214: 'It was about then I ran into Walter Winchell whose column showed more evidence of hard work than anyone else's in town... We used to trade gossip at the Yale Club... I have been a party to a lot of arguments about Winchell since those days. The New Yorker printed the savagely of attacks on him as an institution. But it remains my solid conviction that he is an honest journalist and that the real secret of his success was—and is—simply hard work. It has been 30 years now, and no columnist in the U.S. has successfully competed with him.

"I have heard him called everything from a blackmailer to a paranoiac, but if he had been either, he could never have survived."—Ralph Ingersoll."

"Astoria, L.I. Editor, N.Y. Mirror: In regards to the WW column Dec. 10th titled 'Memos to Our Editors.' Would like to give out with a big hooray for the reporting of truth and fact. Too bad our leaders did not follow his advice (on Castro) instead of Herbert L. Matthews'. Sincerely, Fred Petrie."

"Ann Arbor, Mich: Dear Mr. Winchell: Next Spring we shall publish 'Organized Crime in America: A Book of Readings,' by Gus Tyler... who collected commentaries from narratives by underworld characters to Senate Crime Committees... a continuous story of the Mafia on American life... Sending you a set of galley for your comment—John Dimoff, Univ. of Michigan Press."

On page 244 please correct the Lepke surrender paragraph, which apparently was borrowed from 'Treasury Agent.' The date was not August 24th 1939 but Aug. 25th and I was not waiting in GMan Hoover's car for Lepke to surrender, etc. Mr. Hoover was waiting at 28th and 5th (in his car) where I brought Mr. Murder, Inc. after he (Lepke) kept a rendezvous with me 4 blocks South.

An Inflated Ego

Mrs. H. C. Brote of Covington, Louisiana, desires an inflated ego and has the courage to write to an editor to ask for one. It is a very good idea. No tonic does better than an inflated ego. I am I. That is terrific.

However, don't get me wrong. Mrs. Brote does not wish an inflated ego for herself. She wants it for the United States. She just can't help feeling that an American is as good as a Congolese or Katangese or an Indo-Chinese or even a Russian. She denies racial superiority and is sure that no Uzbek is superior to an American. Stalin was a Georgian and Khrushchev is an Ukrainian (Ukrainians are requested not to write denying the Landsmannschaft as my files are full of such letters). But we, to go back to where this sentence started, are Americans and if anyone dares to say that we are not the Chosen People, ahead of all else, we shall punch them square on the nose.

Mrs. Brote wrote: "We hear a great deal about Russian superiority because the Russians plan it that way. We are rightfully impressed by the fact that chess is their national pastime. To play chess, after a fashion, does not require any more intelligence than bridge, baseball or football. We know that the Russians constantly fail in the realm of agriculture. Our farmers are more impressive than their chess players. I have read that their run of the mill doctors are comparable to our hospital orderlies and their engineers build roads that sink into the jungle while ours succeed."

I know nothing about the value of chess in establishing the superiority of a man. It is an old game that originated in India and my only interest is in chessmen made of ivory or jade that fetch quite a price in any flea market. I do not go in for games, indoor or outdoor, having long ago discovered that all forms of physical effort are not, beneficial for either the mind or the body. Myself I prefer sitting exercises and use my eyes and ears most frequently.

Mrs. Brote knows that the Russians always fail in agriculture which is much more than I know, for way back in the time of the Caesars in Rome, Russia was the bread-basket of Europe and the reason that the Latins go in for so much bread and pasta is that they found so much wheat in Russia.

The misery of misinformation is that language mixes us all up. Russian medical terms come from the German and a Russian doctor may be called by all sorts of names; nevertheless, Mrs. Brote forgets that Russia existed before Lenin was born and Metelnikoff lived before the Smolny Institute ceased being a girls' academy and became the citadel of Marxims. It is wrong to believe that the other fellow knows nothing at all when the fact is that he has more than 1,000 years of valid history. One does not have to like the Russian to tell the truth about him. In fact, Maxim Gorki, who loved Russia, told some horrible tales about Russians.

Well, it is of value to know these little items and I am sure that Ely Culbertson, in whatever heaven he is, will be happy that an old friend remembered him in the Christmas season.

As for whether playing chess requires less or greater intelligence than playing bridge, football or baseball, I must leave that to Mrs. Brote. I have never played bridge but have watched others at it and it seems to me to be a stimulant for divorce. As for baseball and football, only now, in my ancient years, do I go to such frivolities, my Democratic friend, Jim Farley, taking me to sit with him, the value of presence being that some Democrats might believe that if James Aloysius Farley were nominated to run for Governor of New York State against Nelson Rockefeller, some Republicans might vote for him—which is not to be sneezed at.

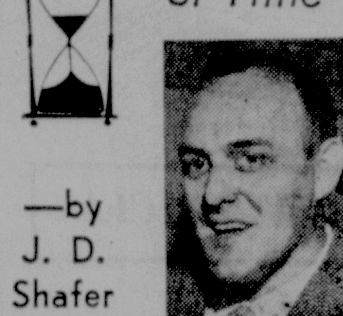

If any Americans base their superiority upon the popularity of bridge over chess, it might be called to their attention that it was a White Russian, Ely Culbertson, who earned a living telling Americans how to play the game. Culbertson never lost his Russian accent, but his father was originally an American engineer in Russia.

Mrs. Brote knows that the Russians always fail in agriculture which is much more than I know, for way back in the time of the Caesars in Rome, Russia was the bread-basket of Europe and the reason that the Latins go in for so much bread and pasta is that they found so much wheat in Russia.

The misery of misinformation is that language mixes us all up. Russian medical terms come from the German and a Russian doctor may be called by all sorts of names; nevertheless, Mrs. Brote forgets that Russia existed before Lenin was born and Metelnikoff lived before the Smolny Institute ceased being a girls' academy and became the citadel of Marxims. ### 10 Years Ago

A Portland man and a Avoca woman lost their lives in separate accidents in the county. Both accidents were caused by icy highways.

Sugar Ray Robinson was voted "Fighter of the Year" for his fine overall record through 1961.

Stroudsburg Firemen were called by Mrs. Raymond Allegar to her farm to fight a fire in the chicken coop. There was no fire just a great deal of smoke from a new stove that had been installed in the coop.

There were 799 Monroe Countains carried on the relief rolls during the first half of the month.

An Old Forge woman was thrown from her car after it slid off the highway and crashed into a small tree. The accident occurred on Elvin Hill, near Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Irene M. Smith was stricken with a heart attack while driving her car in Cresco. She was pronounced dead by her family doctor.

Cincinnati Reds were voted the best fielding team in the National League. The vote was taken by the Associated Press sports writers.

INFORMATION concerning benefits administered by the Veterans Administration may be obtained much more quickly by writing or visiting local VA Regional Offices, rather than writing VA Central Office, Washington, D. C.

Specific requests for information concerning individual cases cannot be handled in Washington, VA pointed out. These must be supplied by the office where the records, files and case folders pertaining to the individual veteran are maintained.

All records of this type are kept in VA Regional Offices and inquiries about particular problems must be referred to the Regional Office having jurisdiction over the records of the veteran concerned.

When veterans write their VA Regional Office for information, they should include their full name, complete address, birthdate and claim number ("C" number), if they have one. This will identify the veteran and assist the VA in locating promptly papers and records sometimes needed in supplying answers to queries.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

One of the easiest habits to fall into is the habit of not working, everybody seemed to agree yesterday which was sort of a hiatus in the holiday activities. Routine affairs started again but hardly with enthusiasm.

Around the house, there was a return to the three-meals-a-day routine although breakfast tended to merge into lunch for the late risers. The Christmas wrappings, done with such infinite pains, were burned in a crumpled and tattered second.

The neat pile of boxes under the tree kept getting disarranged as people decided this was a good day to wear the new boots or the new gloves or to try out the new game. Running bridge scores of rotating players, half-finished thank-you notes, and material for term papers, all of which had to be preserved, almost hid the stubs of Christmas candles.

Down-town there was the same half-hearted attempt to get organized. The food carts were heaped with prosaic items such as more milk, bread, toilet paper; wrong sizes or colors in clothing were being exchanged; and only a few bright faces marked the ones who were spending their Christmas gift money.

Today, though, it is the day we turn the turkey over and start on the other side. Today mothers will throw out the stocking candy, now fuzzy from use, get the children up early and out of doors, hide some of the toys for later enjoyment, and see how many of those boxes under the tree are now empty.

Today finish those thank-you notes, make beds, scrape off the candle wax and run the vacuum cleaner. At least that's the resolutions with which we go to bed. Let's see how much of that resolve endures in the light of dawn.

Candy Canes In Filling For Dessert

Candy canes make festive decorations on the Christmas tree but partially-licked candy canes gathering fuzz from furniture and rugs are hardly appetizing and they do seem to last forever. However before they're all fur-bearing you might borrow some of the red and white peppermint canes to use in a Swedish-style dessert.

An American home economist who spent a year in Sweden brought home this interesting way of arranging chocolate sponge cake, filled with whipped cream and peppermint candy, in pin-wheel form.

When we tried this dessert in our own kitchen, we enclosed the candy in a waxed-paper "envelope" and crushed it fine with a mallet. After the candy was added to the cream and the "pin-wheel" made up, we refrigerated the cake for several hours before serving it. This way the candy has time to dissolve: the filling is smooth as velvet and streaked a pretty pink.

CHOCOLATE PEPPERMINT PINWHEEL CAKE

¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup cocoa
1 cup sugar
4 eggs (separated)
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups heavy cream
½ cup finely crushed red-and-white peppermint stick candy

Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, cocoa and ¼ cup of the sugar. Beat egg whites until almost stiff; beat in remaining ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time; continue beating. If necessary, until soft peaks form. Without washing beater, beat egg yolks until they begin to thicken and are lemon colored; beat in water and vanilla. Fold in sifted dry ingredients; fold this mixture into beaten whites. Turn into a jelly roll pan (about 15 by 10 by 1 inch) that has been greased on the bottom and lined with greased waxed paper. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven until cake springs back when lightly pressed — 12 to 15 minutes. Turn out on clean towel sprinkled heavily with finely granulated sugar; remove paper. Cool a few minutes. Roll cake lengthwise with towel turned inside roll. Cool. Whip cream until stiff; fold in candy. Unroll cake; spread with cream mixture. Cut cake into 6 equal lengthwise strips. Roll up in center of serving plate; arrange other strips around first strip in pinwheel fashion. Chill before serving. Makes 12 servings.

Don't Bite A Gift Pearl

Ladies should not bite their pearls. It's no way to tell whether they are real or simulated. Because jewelers touch pearls to their teeth, women have been damaging theirs at a record rate by chewing on them, claim alarmed members of the Cultured Pearl Association.

Actually the slightest contact with the teeth is enough to determine whether a gem is smooth and therefore simulated, or grainy and consequently cultured, they say.

Simulated pearls are usually made of glass bead or plastic centers covered with layers of lustrous substance of fish scales.

Cultured pearls are developed by inserting a tiny irritant into the fleshy interior of an oyster. The oyster builds a coat around it. Natural pearls are built by the oyster around a speck of sand or some other natural intruder.

The naked eye cannot tell the difference between the two kinds of cultured pearls. Experts rely on x-ray reports.

Style? She'll Make Hers Manila

New York (AP)—Philippine women know more about wearing smart clothes than Americans, claims a fiercely loyal fashion columnist from Manila. "I'm afraid I'll have to say American women are a bit sloppy in their appearance."

Lucie L. Tambauto is the critic. She has gained considerable prestige in her home islands as an editor for Woman's World, a Manila publication, and as fashion writer for other journals.

Now she is touring the country to gather ideas for fashion shows for television programs. But Miss Tambauto remains convinced that Manila is the fashion capital of the Far East. "The trouble with American women," she feels, "is that they are too easy to satisfy. They go to a store—where they can buy something right off the rack or to an exclusive shop where something is fitted for them. They have a clerk wrap it up and walk right out with it."

Women in the Philippines, she says, do not want to look alike. "They want something of their own taste and own ideas made evident in their dresses. So most of them, even those of modest income, go to the dress-maker and have dresses made for themselves alone, as individuals."

Still, although Miss Tambauto does not appreciate their apparel, she thinks American women are "friendly and, very charming."

Time-Saving Casserole For Holiday Rush

Holidays are busy times to be sure. There are extra social events, a houseful of company, and a million and one more projects that seem to always occur. On that day when "one hour in the kitchen" must take care of everything, Hurry-Up Casserole is the answer suggested by Reba Stagg, meat cookery expert. It's made with the can of luncheon meat you should have handy on your kitchen shelf.

The casserole combines the luncheon meat with cauliflower and celery in a cheese sauce. Crushed shredded wheat is sprinkled on top. While the cauliflower is cooking, you can be cubing the luncheon meat, slicing the celery, grating the cheese and preparing the sauce. Thirty minutes in the oven and the casserole is ready.

Hurry-Up Casserole

- 1 can (12 ounces) luncheon meat, cut into ¼-inch cubes
  - ½ cup sliced celery
  - 2 tablespoons chopped onion
  - 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
  - 2 tablespoons flour
  - 1 cup milk
  - 1/3 cup grated American cheese
  - 1 package (10 ounces) frozen cauliflower, cooked and seasoned
  - 3 tablespoons coarsely crushed shredded wheat
  - ¾ teaspoon basil
- Cook celery and onion in butter or margarine until tender. Stir in flour. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Fold in luncheon meat, cheese and cauliflower. Pour into a 1-quart casserole. Combine crushed shredded wheat and basil. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 30 minutes. 4 servings.

Dear Abby

Grin--And Show 'Em!

Dear Abby: I must have an outside opinion. I am 44-year-old unmarried woman. Ever since I was a child I had the worst looking teeth you ever saw. They were very large, protruding and naturally yellow. I remember how I used to try to keep from laughing so my ugly teeth wouldn't show. Fortunately, I was in an auto accident just before Thanksgiving and my front teeth were knocked out. The dentist made a truly beautiful partial plate for me. It has changed my appearance completely. I never knew six teeth could make me so happy. My problem is my friends and relatives. They all say, "It looks nice—but it isn't YOU." I don't want to be Me any more. I like the change. Am I wrong or are they?

SMILING BUT IN DOUBT

Dear Smiling: Keep smiling, you are the one who has to like it, and let there be no doubt about it.

Dear Abby: Do you think a girl should go steady with a boy who lives in a different state?

WANTS TO KNOW
Dear Wants: It is up to the girl and the boy. But call it by its right name. It is "staying home steady."

Dear Abby: I'll get right to the point. My mother drinks. I am 15 and the oldest of four children. We are not poor, but if Mamma spent more on food and less on whiskey we would eat better. Don't suggest Alcoholics Anonymous. She would never go. Daddy travels and when he is home she is pretty good, but as soon as he leaves town she starts drinking again. What are children supposed to do with a drinking parent who refuses to help herself?

NO FUTURE

Dear No.: There IS no help for the alcoholic who refuses to help herself, but there IS help for her teen-aged children. Write to ALATEEN, P. O. BOX 182, MADISON SQUARE STATION, NEW YORK 10, NEW YORK. This club is especially for the children of alcoholics. It is free, and has been a godsend to many with your problem.

Confidential To "The Family Fall Guy": Help him again. You ARE your brother's keeper.

Are things rugged? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., and don't forget a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

After Opening Singles Victories

Australia Needs Doubles Win To Clinch Davis Cup

By GORDON TAIT

MELBOURNE (AP)—Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola met Australia's Roy Emerson and Neale Fraser in Doubles

Wednesday in a last ditch effort to keep the Davis Cup challenge round alive.

A victory for the Australians will give them the international tennis trophy for the 10th time in the last 12 years.

The match was scheduled to start at 2 p.m. local time (11 p.m. EST Tuesday in U.S.) on the Kooyong Courts where the Australians won the opening two singles Tuesday.

Capture Singles

Emerson, Australian and U.S. champion, handed the Italians their hardest blow when he defeated Pietrangeli 6-6, 6-4, 6-0. The flashy, left-handed Rod Laver, Wimbledon champion, made it 2-0 with a 55-minute rout of the 6-foot-8 Sirola 6-1, 6-4, 6-8.

The Italians have their best chance in doubles, and the match is considered a tossup. Pietrangeli and Sirola have been playing together for eight years and during that time they have beaten some of the world's top combinations.

A year ago, in one of the Australian state championships, they crushed Fraser and Emerson. However, later, in the Davis Cup challenge round they dropped a tough battle to the same Aussie pair 10-8, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Twelve thousand people sat in blistering heat in the open Kooyong stands to see the start of the 1961 Davis Cup challenge. Some fainted and some found it too hot to stay, but 10,000 were there when Sirola played his last shot into the net.

High Mercury

The temperature was around 85 degrees in the shade when play started and rose to 94 during the afternoon. It must have been well over 100 on the center court.

The biggest thrill for the crowd—which included many hundreds of the large Italian migrant community in Melbourne—came in the first set of the first match. Pietrangeli, after having been down 2-3, broke Emerson's service twice to love and held his own for a 5-3 lead.

He was hitting great winners down the lines and forcing Emerson into errors and moved into a great position to take the set. Then, on his own service he tried to play safe and babied his shots. Emerson killed these weak ones to take the game.

Hold It Boys! Score Revised In South Tilt

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Southern boys relied on Southern hospitality when the end came Monday night in their annual charity game with the North. The South won 35-16.

Record cold weather chilled already excited fans into surging onto the field, interfering with officials who were deciding whether South quarterback Bobby Ply was tackled in the end zone for a North safety or whether he fumbled and the North recovered for a touchdown.

Fans left the field believing the game ended 35-10, with the North scoring a last-second safety. Tuesday, referee Pete Williams said the official score was 35-16 because Ply did fumble and the North did recover. Williams said he didn't know which North player recovered. What happened, he said, was this:

By the time officials decided the North had a touchdown, fans had surged onto the field, mingling with the players.

"I told Duffy Daugherty, the North coach, that he had a touchdown," Williams said, "and asked him if he wanted to try for the extra points. He said he did."

"I then told Frank Howard, the South coach, there would have to be an extra play. "But seeing the mass of people that had already swarmed onto the field, Howard said he would concede the extra points as a gesture of Southern hospitality. Therefore, the North got eight points to make the final score 35-16."

Blue (North) Penn State Favored By 6 Over Gray

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—If you win All-Star football games with players who performed together during the regular season, the Yankees will have an advantage in Saturday's Blue-Gray encounter.

The three North coaches have nine of their own players on the 24-man squad, including four each from Syracuse and Missouri. Rebel coaches have only six players from their own squads.

Some of the guys who occasionally wager a buck or two on the outcome of athletic endeavors rate the North a 6-point favorite. That is based partly on the fact that for the past three years, victorious Yankee head coaches have had their own quarterbacks calling the plays.

And they'll have them again Saturday. Directing the Blue squad on offense will be Dave Sarette of Syracuse and Ron Taylor of Missouri.

Northern coaches for the 23rd annual All-Star game are Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse, Don Faurot of Missouri and Ara Parseghian of Northwestern.

Florida's Ray Graves and his associates on the Rebel board, Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian and Earle Edwards of North Carolina State, are having to work by contrast, with quarterbacks from other teams. Calling the signals for the South will be Bobby Hunt of Auburn and Don Fuelle of Mississippi Southern.

LSU In Miami; Begin Practice

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Louisiana State's 47-man football team arrived Tuesday to begin preparations for its Jan. 1 meeting with Colorado in the Orange Bowl.

Coach Paul Dietzel planned to send the players through a brief drill in sweat clothes and begin more serious sessions Wednesday.

Penn State Hustles Thru First Session

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—"We are scrambling a little to get back at the peak of condition," coach Rip Engle of Penn State said Tuesday as he hustled his football squad through its first practice on Florida soil for the Gator Bowl game at Jacksonville Saturday.

The 46-man Penn State squad arrived by chartered plane and took the practice field as soon as everyone checked into the hotel.

Georgia Tech, its opponent, will arrive in Jacksonville Thursday and stay in a downtown hotel there.

The gray-haired Engle, voicing plenty of respect for Tech, said his aim is to get the Nittany Lions to the point they reached when they whipped Pittsburgh 47-26 in their finale of the regular season.

"That was our best effort, particularly on offense," Engle said. "I don't know for sure whether we can get there again."

He said he was satisfied with last week's workouts at Ft. Eustis, Va., and hopes the timing in executing plays will be polished up in the final four days of work on a high school field here.

"We will practice once each day. Our Friday practice will be a light one and we hope to hold it in the Gator Bowl."

Most of the Penn State players were off the injury list and Engle said halfback Don Jonas may be able to see some action besides placekicking.

Engle said Don Hayes may begin in place of Hal Powell and also will play some at fullback.

Cincy Grabs Festival Win Over St. John

NEW YORK (AP)—Soph Ron Bonham came off the bench with the hottest pair of shooting hands seen in Madison Square Garden in a long time and sparked the national collegiate basketball champion Cincinnati Bearcats to a 97-68 victory Tuesday over St. John's in the Holiday Basketball Festival.

In the first game of the opening doubleheader, two torrid scoring streaks by LaSalle sparked the Explorers to an 87-60 victory over Dartmouth.

Dayton and New York University, a pair of unbeatens, met in the first game of the evening's doubleheader while defending National Invitation champ Providence took on Wisconsin in the nightcap.

Bonham, a sharpshooter from Muncie, Ind., took over Cincinnati's offense almost single-handedly. He brought the Bearcats from a 35-32 deficit near halftime to a 44-37 lead, hitting three straight one-handers. He wound up the game with 27 points.

The Redmen, now 4-2, were led by 6-foot-10 Leroy Ellis with 28 points.

LaSalle outscored Dartmouth 44-32 in the first half of the opening game.

Bob McAteer paced the Explorers with 18 points. Steve Spahn of Dartmouth scored 26.

Giant Trio Is Back In Shape

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The team's three cripples — halfback Alex Webster, end Joe Walton and tackle Roosevelt Brown—were back in action when the New York Giants resumed workouts Tuesday for next Sunday's National Football League title game against Green Bay.

"It's too early to tell whether they'll be able to go full speed," said Coach Allie Sherman. "I am hopeful they'll be okay. We'll need all the offensive punch we can get."

All three of the injured players are members of the offensive unit. Webster suffered a pulled groin muscle and Walton strained a leg muscle against Philadelphia Dec. 10. Brown has been playing a month with a bad knee.

Duke, Iowa Gain Wins In Quaker City

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Unbeaten Duquesne, with a slick working offense sparked by Clyde Arnold, trounced Wyoming 64-47 and Iowa put on the heat in the second half Tuesday to defeat Penn State 67-48 in opening round games of the first Quaker City basketball tournament.

Duquesne, now 7-0, grabbed the lead early in the game and gradually built the margin over an inferior Wyoming team.

The Iowa-Penn State game was a different story. Penn State played Iowa on even terms in the first half, trailing only 27-26 at the intermission. Iowa, however, led by high scoring Don Nelson who got an over-all 29 points held Penn State to only 22 points in the second half while connecting 40.

At one point State went 10½ minutes without scoring a field goal. Arnold, along with Mike Rice and Willie Somerset, the big three of Duquesne overwhelmed the Cowboys both offensively and defensively.

Arnold scored 18 points to lead all scorers.

Penn State was led by 6-3 senior Gene Harris, who collected 18 points.

Question Aussie Rights To Cup

MELBOURNE (AP)—Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli Tuesday questioned Australia's right to be called the tennis champion of the world.

"We always admit Australia is the champion, but only on grass," Pietrangeli said. "The only way Australia can be proved to be the champion nation is to win the cup on the hard courts of Europe."

a regular season contest), we're going to have to control the ball," Sherman added. "They have a hard-nut attack."

The Giants, wided out at Yankee Stadium Tuesday afternoon. The team takes off from LaGuardia Airport at 1 p.m. Friday by chartered plane.

The game between the Eastern and Western division champions of the NFL is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. CST (2 p.m. EST) in Green Bay's City Stadium. The Packers rule a 2½-point favorite.

Sherman said the Giants were unswayed by the advance odds or the fact that they had suffered two straight defeats at the hands of the Green Bay team.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers, for the first time in weeks, all were present Tuesday as Coach Vince Lombardi blew the whistle for the last week of workouts aiming toward the National Football League championship game against the Giants next Sunday.

Some 200 fans climbed up on the four-foot snow drifts ringing the practice field as the Western Division champions ran through an hour of no-contact drills in 20-degree weather.

First Time
Defensive back John Symank was in pads for the first time since a chest cartilage was injured in the Los Angeles game, and fullback Jim Taylor, who suffered a painful back injury in the same game, took his place in the offensive backfield but did no running.

The three big guns from the Army — NFL scoring champion Paul Hornung, flanker back Boyd Dowler and line backer Ray Nitschke—all were on hand.

Injury Delays Sugar Ray Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—An injury to Sugar Ray Robinsons left hand forced a postponement from Jan. 6 to Feb. 3 of the former middleweight champion's return bout with Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore., at Madison Square Garden.

An examination showed Tuesday the 41-year-old veteran had injured the second and third knuckles of his left hand. There was no fracture, however, according to X-rays taken at the offices of the State Athletic Commission.

Robinson said he first injured the hand in knocking out Wilf Greaves in Pittsburgh Dec. 8. He aggravated the injury in hitting a sparmate last Saturday.

The resurgent Draftsmen, last year's doormats, provided the most stunning upset of the season with a 4-0 plastering of powerful Material Control, clinching a first division berth in the process. Tom Beseker rapped a 204-591 and Harry Shields a 232-588 for the blue-rollers, as Bill Stone's 534 topped Control.

The Welders finished third with a flourish, battering the Office, 4-0. Dayt Martz' 532 and Al Luckey's 220-531 did the job for the arc boys, while the desk jockeys failed to show a 500 man.

Shop and the Outside Gang staged a pier sixer, each going in with a chance for fourth, and wound up 2-2 as the Gang copped the first and held up for total. Outside showed no 500s, as Bill Hay's 224-517 and Vince Shafer's 514 were the only ones for Shop.

High Five Averages—First Half
Patsy Neffue 179-33
Frank McNamara 172-33
Hal Burkholder 171-9
Harry Shields 171-1
Dayt Martz 170-30
High single, 1st half, Herb Haney, 255.
High triple, 1st half, Pat Neffue, 627.

Cinder Inn defeated Rhineland Inn 3 to 1 as Josie Harris and Eileen Stauffer both rolled 516. Jeanne May led Rhineland Inn with a 513.

"In case I don't see you until tomorrow morning, Happy New Year, Mommy and Daddy! Angela Babysitter and I are going to have cookies and milk and read bedtime stories while you are out tonight."

Tommy Toddler is just thrilled with his Holiday babysitter. He's met a new friend. In fact he likes her so much that he accepts the parents-night-out idea like it were an everyday occurrence.

Children meet new grownups with the same manner as new playmates. Both adults and kiddies are, to them, someone to enjoy being with.

Grown-ups include babysitters. So, YOU are a grown-up. Do you enjoy meeting little folks? Why don't you place your ad today, in time for parents to make their plans?

We have a special classified section created with the parent and the sitter in mind. If you are a parent, you may be wishing for a sitter and if you are a sitter you may be wishing for a new, little friend. You can get together through the service of a simple want-ad placed today under "Who-Can-Do-It" where "Baby-sitters" are listed. Dial HA 1-7349 for an Ad-writer.
